Carriage fashion show draws anger

Central Park. The designer Vincent de Souza put models on horse carriages for his Fashion Week show.

Demonstrators from NYCLASS, PETA, the Coalition to Ban Horse-Drawn Carriages and other animal rights groups gathered Wednesday evening along Central Park South to protest the use of horses in a New York Fashion Week show.

New York designer Vincent de Souza's show started Fashion Week at 7 p.m., turning the street into a "moving runway" with models wearing his designs riding on the carriages.

De Souza, who has designed clothes for celebrities such as Katy Perry and Rihanna, previously called the horse-drawn carriage "the epitome of style," and said "there is no better canvas for a runway show than a carriage ride through Central Park."

"I don't think a $10,000 designer gown goes well with horse manure," said Allie Feldman, executive director of NYCLASS, a nonprofit animal advocacy group.

Feldman said she was "disgusted" when she heard the designer was using horse-drawn carriages in the show, and said he was using "abused animals" for "his own publicity." Feldman also said several of the animals rights groups reached out to the designer, including sending 40,000 letters, to ask him to not use horses in his show.

The protesters chanted and waved signs, one reading, "Horses deserve a better runway," and lined the block at 7th Avenue facing the park.

Carriage drivers queued up across the street said they were used to the protesters. Driver Bruno Angelucci said he grew up around horses in Italy, and said the company he works for "takes very good care of the horses."

Attempts to reach de Souza before deadline were unsuccessful.

NYC. St. Patrick's Day Parade allows openly gay group to march

A LGBT group from NBC Universal will become the first gay group to openly march in the St. Patrick's Day Parade.

The St. Patrick's Day Parade Committee said Wednesday they approved OUT@NBCUniversal's application to walk in the March 17 parade with their banner.

The group tweeted, "We are proud to be the 1st #LGBT group to march in NY St. Patrick Day parade."

"This is a welcome first step and a good day for New Yorkers who believe in fairness, equality and human rights," Council Speaker Melissa Mark-Viverito said.

Earlier this year, Mayor Bill de Blasio did not march in the parade, which has historically excluded openly gay groups from marching.

NYC tops for biking in US

There's no better place to bike around than New York City, according to Bicycling magazine.

The magazine released its biennial ranking of the 50 most cycling-friendly U.S. cities in its October issue, which hit stands yesterday, and the Big Apple topped the list.

New York jumped six spots higher than in 2012.

The city has more than 350 miles of bike lanes and more than 96,000 members subscribe to Citi Bike, the nation's largest bike-share program.

Columbia student will carry mattress to protest alleged rape

Emma Sulkowicz, 21, said on Tuesday she'll carry a dorm room mattress with her around campus until her alleged rapist is expelled.

The protest is the visual art major's senior thesis, titled "Mattress Performance," or "Carry that Weight," which will depict to anyone who asks the weight she carries of her rape in a dorm bed two years ago, Sulkowicz said in a video posted to YouTube by the school's paper Columbia Daily Spectator.

Sulkowicz is one of 23 students who filed a federal Title IX complaint over the university's sexual assault policies.

Columbia University declined to comment to protect "the privacy of students participating in gender-biased misconduct proceedings."

Pre-K program faces bumps on road to opening

New York City.

Nine pre-K's won't open and others face delays.

One day before the start of the city's universal pre-K program, Mayor Bill de Blasio said nine pre-Ks won't open, and 36 others will see a delay in opening.

According to the city, the locations had "at least one outstanding agency concern" after inspections.

On Tuesday, de Blasio said he felt "confident" about providing 50,000 children full-day pre-K.

"There will be some programs that will be delayed, and what we know is there will be some programs that we decide don't make the cut. ... That is not a glitch, that is following through on a specific plan, and if we don't see what we're looking for, we're going to be aggressive in terms of protecting the health and safety of our kids," he said.

Big initiative

- Mayor Bill De Blasio said that parents looking for more information on pre-K locations and statuses can call 311.
- The majority of the city's 1,700 pre-Ks are expected to open as planned Thursday for the first day of school in the city.

RFK Bridge ramp work finishes early

Drivers traveling from Manhattan to Queens on the Robert F. Kennedy Bridge now have a smoother ride, the MTA said Wednesday.

Improvements to the 54,000-square-foot ramp wrapped up a month ahead of schedule on Aug. 29.

The project, which replaced the original ramp built in 1967, cost $50.7 million. The new ramp has a smoother surface, safety shoulders and better drainage, the MTA said.

New York. Fast-food workers set to strike

Fast-food workers from McDonald's, Wendy's, Burger King, KFC and Domino's are set to strike on Thursday morning in Manhattan.

The New York City workers are demanding $15 an hour minimum wage and the right to unionize, and will be joined by workers from St. Louis.

The first strike is planned for 7:15 a.m. on Thursday outside McDonald's at 220 W. 42nd Street.

The second strike is planned for 11:45 a.m. outside McDonald's at 946 8th Avenue.

The fast-food workers

FOR ADULTS WITH TYPE 2 DIABETES

Januvia® works
when my blood sugar
is HIGH...

...and works less
when my
blood sugar
is LOW.

Actor portrayal.

JANUVIA works by enhancing your body's own ability to lower blood sugar.

- JANUVIA is a prescription pill you take once a day.
- JANUVIA, along with diet and exercise, helps lower blood sugar in adults with type 2 diabetes.
- JANUVIA, by itself, is not likely to cause blood sugar going too low (hypoglycemia), because it works less when blood sugar is low.
- JANUVIA, by itself, is not likely to cause weight gain.

JANUVIA (jah-NEW-vee-ah) should not be used in patients with type 1 diabetes or with diabetic ketoacidosis (increased ketones in the blood or urine). If you have had pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas), it is not known if you have a higher chance of getting it while taking JANUVIA.

Selected Risk Information About JANUVIA

Serious side effects can happen in people who take JANUVIA, including pancreatitis, which may be severe and lead to death. Before you start taking JANUVIA, tell your doctor if you've ever had pancreatitis. Stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away if you have pain in your stomach area (abdomen) that is severe and will not go away. The pain may be felt going from your abdomen through to your back. The pain may happen with or without vomiting. These may be symptoms of pancreatitis.

Do not take JANUVIA if you are allergic to any of its ingredients, including sitagliptin. Symptoms of serious allergic reactions to JANUVIA, including rash, hives, and swelling of the face, lips, tongue, and throat that may cause difficulty breathing or swallowing, can occur. If you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away.

Kidney problems, sometimes requiring dialysis, have been reported.

If you take JANUVIA with another medicine that can cause low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), such as a sulfonylurea or insulin, your risk of getting low blood sugar is higher. The dose of your sulfonylurea medicine or insulin may need to be lowered while you use JANUVIA. Signs and symptoms of low blood sugar may include headache, drowsiness, weakness, dizziness, confusion, irritability, hunger, fast heart beat, sweating, and feeling jittery.

Please read the Medication Guide on the adjacent page for more detailed information.

Merck Helps™ Having trouble paying for your Merck medicine? Merck may be able to help. www.merck.com/merckhelps

Your doctor may do blood tests before and during treatment with JANUVIA to see how well your kidneys are working. Based on these results, your doctor may change your dose of JANUVIA. The most common side effects of JANUVIA are upper respiratory tract infection, stuffy or runny nose and sore throat, and headache.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Medication Guide

JANUVIA® (jah-NEW-vee-ah) (sitagliptin) Tablets

Read this Medication Guide carefully before you start taking JANUVIA and each time you get a refill. There may be new information. This information does not take the place of talking with your doctor about your medical condition or your treatment. If you have any questions about JANUVIA, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

What is the most important information I should know about JANUVIA?

Serious side effects can happen in people taking JANUVIA, including inflammation of the pancreas (pancreatitis) which may be severe and lead to death.

Certain medical problems make you more likely to get pancreatitis.

Before you start taking JANUVIA:

Tell your doctor if you have ever had

- pancreatitis
- stones in your gallbladder (gallstones)
- a history of alcoholism
- high blood triglyceride levels
- kidney problems

Stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away if you have pain in your stomach area (abdomen) that is severe and will not go away. The pain may be felt going from your abdomen through to your back. The pain may happen with or without vomiting. These may be symptoms of pancreatitis.

What is JANUVIA?

- JANUVIA is a prescription medicine used along with diet and exercise to lower blood sugar in adults with type 2 diabetes.
- JANUVIA is not for people with type 1 diabetes.
- JANUVIA is not for people with diabetic ketoacidosis (increased ketones in your blood or urine).
- If you have had pancreatitis (inflammation of the pancreas) in the past, it is not known if you have a higher chance of getting pancreatitis while you take JANUVIA.
- It is not known if JANUVIA is safe and effective when used in children under 18 years of age.

Who should not take JANUVIA?

Do not take JANUVIA if:

- you are allergic to any of the ingredients in JANUVIA. See the end of this Medication Guide for a complete list of ingredients in JANUVIA.

Symptoms of a serious allergic reaction to JANUVIA may include:

- rash
- raised red patches on your skin (hives)
- swelling of the face, lips, tongue, and throat that may cause difficulty in breathing or swallowing

What should I tell my doctor before taking JANUVIA?

Before you take JANUVIA, tell your doctor if you:

- have or have had inflammation of your pancreas (pancreatitis).
- have kidney problems.
- have any other medical conditions.
- are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if JANUVIA will harm your unborn baby. If you are pregnant, talk with your doctor about the best way to control your blood sugar while you are pregnant.

Pregnancy Registry: If you take JANUVIA at any time during your pregnancy, talk with your doctor about how you can join the JANUVIA pregnancy registry. The purpose of this registry is to collect information about the health of you and your baby. You can enroll in this registry by calling 1-800-986-8999.

- are breast-feeding or plan to breast-feed. It is not known if JANUVIA will pass into your breast milk. Talk with your doctor about the best way to feed your baby if you are taking JANUVIA.

Tell your doctor about all the medicines you take, including prescription and non-prescription medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

Know the medicines you take. Keep a list of your medicines and show it to your doctor and pharmacist when you take a new medicine.

How should I take JANUVIA?

- Take JANUVIA 1 time each day exactly as your doctor tells you.
- You can take JANUVIA with or without food.
- Your doctor may do blood tests from time to time to see how well your kidneys are working. Your doctor may change your dose of JANUVIA based on the results of your blood tests.
- Your doctor may tell you to take JANUVIA along with other diabetes medicines. Low blood sugar can happen more often when JANUVIA is taken with certain other diabetes medicines. See “What are the possible side effects of JANUVIA?”.
- If you miss a dose, take it as soon as you remember. If you do not remember until it is time for your next dose, skip the missed dose and go back to your regular schedule. Do not take two doses of JANUVIA at the same time.
- If you take too much JANUVIA, call your doctor or local Poison Control Center right away.
- When your body is under some types of stress, such as fever, trauma (such as a car accident), infection or surgery, the amount of diabetes medicine that you need may change. Tell your doctor right away if you have any of these conditions and follow your doctor's instructions.
- Check your blood sugar as your doctor tells you to.

- Stay on your prescribed diet and exercise program while taking JANUVIA.
- Talk to your doctor about how to prevent, recognize and manage low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), high blood sugar (hyperglycemia), and problems you have because of your diabetes.
- Your doctor will check your diabetes with regular blood tests, including your blood sugar levels and your hemoglobin A1C.

What are the possible side effects of JANUVIA?

Serious side effects have happened in people taking JANUVIA.

- See “What is the most important information I should know about JANUVIA?”.
- Low blood sugar (hypoglycemia). If you take JANUVIA with another medicine that can cause low blood sugar, such as a sulfonylurea or insulin, your risk of getting low blood sugar is higher. The dose of your sulfonylurea medicine or insulin may need to be lowered while you use JANUVIA. Signs and symptoms of low blood sugar may include:
  - headache
  - drowsiness
  - weakness
  - dizziness
  - confusion
  - irritability
  - hunger
  - fast heart beat
  - sweating
  - feeling jittery
- Serious allergic reactions. If you have any symptoms of a serious allergic reaction, stop taking JANUVIA and call your doctor right away. See “Who should not take JANUVIA?”. Your doctor may give you a medicine for your allergic reaction and prescribe a different medicine for your diabetes.
- Kidney problems, sometimes requiring dialysis

The most common side effects of JANUVIA include:

- upper respiratory infection
- stuffy or runny nose and sore throat
- headache

JANUVIA may have other side effects, including:

- stomach upset and diarrhea
- swelling of the hands or legs, when JANUVIA is used with rosiglitazone (Avandia®). Rosiglitazone is another type of diabetes medicine.

These are not all the possible side effects of JANUVIA. For more information, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

Tell your doctor if you have any side effect that bothers you, is unusual or does not go away.

Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088.

How should I store JANUVIA?

Store JANUVIA at 68°F to 77°F (20°C to 25°C).

Keep JANUVIA and all medicines out of the reach of children.

General information about the use of JANUVIA

Medicines are sometimes prescribed for purposes that are not listed in Medication Guides. Do not use JANUVIA for a condition for which it was not prescribed. Do not give JANUVIA to other people, even if they have the same symptoms you have. It may harm them.

This Medication Guide summarizes the most important information about JANUVIA. If you would like to know more information, talk with your doctor. You can ask your doctor or pharmacist for additional information about JANUVIA that is written for health professionals. For more information, go to www.JANUVIA.com or call 1-800-622-4477.

What are the ingredients in JANUVIA?

Active ingredient: sitagliptin

Inactive ingredients: microcrystalline cellulose, anhydrous dibasic calcium phosphate, croscarmellose sodium, magnesium stearate, and sodium stearyl fumarate. The tablet film coating contains the following inactive ingredients: polyvinyl alcohol, polyethylene glycol, talc, titanium dioxide, red iron oxide, and yellow iron oxide.

What is type 2 diabetes?

Type 2 diabetes is a condition in which your body does not make enough insulin, and the insulin that your body produces does not work as well as it should. Your body can also make too much sugar. When this happens, sugar (glucose) builds up in the blood. This can lead to serious medical problems.

High blood sugar can be lowered by diet and exercise, and by certain medicines when necessary.

NYC. Joan Rivers out of intensive care unit

Comedian Joan Rivers, who suffered cardiac arrest last week, has been moved out of an intensive care unit in a New York hospital and into a private room, her daughter said on Wednesday.

Rivers, 81, is "being kept comfortable" in a private room at Mount Sinai Hospital on Manhattan's Upper East Side, according to her daughter, Melissa Rivers.

The comedian was placed on life support after she stopped breathing and suffered cardiac arrest during outpatient surgery on her vocal cords at a nearby clinic on Aug. 28.

"My mother has been moved out of intensive care and into a private room," Melissa Rivers said in a statement. "Thank you for your continued support." REUTERS

Long history

Rivers started out writing for "The Ed Sullivan Show." A career in stand-up followed. She later worked as a regular guest host for Johnny Carson on NBC's "The Tonight Show."

- Rivers also hosted "The Joan Rivers Show," and later "Fashion Police," a show in which she commented on the unfortunate red carpet choices of celebrities.

CVS stops carrying smokes early

Drugstore chain CVS announced the end of cigarette sales in its stores one month earlier than anticipated.

A name change, to CVS Health, accompanied the announcement on Wednesday. The company also said it was launching a smoking cessation campaign.

New York Attorney General Eric Schneiderman said he "applauded" CVS for "[prioritizing] public health over corporate profit," and called upon other chains like Walgreens and Rite-Aid to stop selling cigarettes as well.

"As pharmacies increasingly market themselves as a source for community health care, they send a mixed message by continuing to sell deadly tobacco products," Schneiderman said.

Contact us if you have a story to tell: emily.laurence@metro.us

Our Second Shift series features people working more than one job and finding creative ways to make money. This week, meet a speech therapist who balances her part-time job with being a freelance photographer, getting her Ph.D. and hosting Airbnb guests.

Is it hard to get your schoolwork done while holding down a job?

It is! I work three days a week at an adult rehab for people who have had a traumatic brain injury, heart attack or stroke. In addition to that, I have private cases on the side. ... My Ph.D. classes at Columbia University are two days a week.

How did you get into wedding photography, another one of your jobs?

My partner is a photographer and she was invited to a wedding to shoot and the couple insisted that I come. I thought

Felicidad Garcia / PROVIDED

I'd be bored since my partner would be working the whole time, so she convinced me to rent a camera and shadow her.

You and your partner also rent out a bedroom on Airbnb.

The demand in the summer is much higher than in the winter, so we try to save some of the money to get us through that dry season. Unfortunately, winter is a slow time for photography too, so that's why we try to save some of our money away.

Obama: We will 'degrade and destroy' ISIS

Reporter killed.

Secretary of State John Kerry called Sotloff's execution a "punch to the gut."

The United States plans to fight Islamic State until it is no longer a force in the Middle East and will seek justice for the killing of American journalist Steven Sotloff, President Barack Obama said on Wednesday.

He added that destroying the militant group will take time because of the power vacuum in Syria, the abundance of battle-hardened fighters that grew out of al Qaeda during the Iraq war and the need to build coalitions, including with local Sunni communities.

Islamic State released a video on Tuesday showing the beheading of the U.S. journalist, the second American hostage to be killed within weeks, in retaliation for U.S. air strikes in Iraq.

"The bottom line is this: Our objective is clear and that is to degrade and destroy [the Islamic State] so that it's no longer a threat not just to Iraq but also the region and to the United States," Obama told a news conference.

"Whatever these murderers think they will achieve with killing in-

U.S. and British officials both examined the Islamic State video and concluded it was authentic. / GETTY IMAGES

"Those who make the mistake of harming Americans will learn that we will not forget and that our reach is long and that justice will be served."

Obama authorized the strike in Pakistan that killed al Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden 10 years after the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on the U.S.

nocent Americans like Steven, they have already failed," Obama said. "They failed because, like people around the world, Americans are repulsed by their barbarism. We will not be intimidated."

The United States resumed air strikes in Iraq in August for the first time since the pullout of U.S. troops in 2011.

At home, top Obama administration officials punctuated Obama's warnings to the Islamic State.

"They should know we will follow them to the gates of hell until they are brought to justice. Because hell is where they will reside, hell is where they will reside," Vice President Joe Biden said during an appearance in New Hampshire.

US missionary describes 'dark days' of Ebola

Smiling and appearing robustly healthy, a U.S. missionary infected with Ebola while working in Liberia on Wednesday shared publicly her battle with the deadly virus for the first time.

Nancy Writebol, 59, of Charlotte, North Carolina, has been recovering in an undisclosed location since her release last month from an Atlanta hospital that also treated another missionary who contracted the often lethal virus.

She told reporters there were mornings when she woke up and thought with surprise, "I'm alive."

"I thought whether I live or whether I die, it's going to be OK. It's going to be OK," she said, speaking at times through tears about her recovery at the headquarters of SIM USA.

Toll. According to WHO, Ebola has killed more than 1,500 in West Africa since March.

A 51-year-old Massachusetts physician, Dr. Rick Sacra, is the latest missionary worker to be infected with Ebola while working in Liberia, the Christian organization SIM USA said on Wednesday.

Sacra had been delivering babies and working with patients who were not known to have the deadly virus, the organization said. It had not yet been determined how he contracted the disease.

He had been following protocols for containment of the disease. Sacra

Verizon to pay $7.4 million over failure to notify privacy rights

Verizon Communications Inc. will pay $7.4 million to settle a U.S. investigation that found the company failed to properly notify some customers of their privacy rights before using their information for marketing, U.S. regulators said on Wednesday.

The Federal Communications Commission said its investigation found that starting in 2006, some 2 million new phone customers did not receive proper privacy notices in their first bill. The notices would have told consumers how to opt out of having their personal information used to tailor marketing offers.

ONLY LANDLINE CUSTOMERS WERE AFFECTED. / GETTY IMAGES

Phone companies are generally prohibited from using personal data they collect from their customers, though such data can be used for marketing if the consumer gives permission.

"It is plainly unacceptable for any phone company to use its customers' personal information for thousands of marketing campaigns without even giving them the choice to opt out," said Travis LeBlanc, acting chief of the FCC's Enforcement Bureau. REUTERS

Ponzi scheme. Bernie Madoff's son loses his battle with cancer

Andrew Madoff / GETTY IMAGES

"Andrew Madoff has lost his courageous battle against mantle cell lymphoma."

Martin Flumenbaum, Madoff's lawyer, said in a statement

Andrew Madoff, the son of convicted fraudster Bernard Madoff, died on Wednesday from cancer, his lawyer said. He was 48.

"He died peacefully at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center on Sept. 3, 2014, surrounded by his loving family," lawyer Martin Flumenbaum said in a statement.

Both Madoff sons denied knowing about the fraud and were never criminally charged in connection with the scheme. They turned their father in to authorities in December 2008, saying he had confessed to them.

However, the guilty plea of former Madoff adviser Paul Konigsberg in June included reference to the brothers as "co-conspirators," suggesting prosecutors were still considering criminal charges against Andrew Madoff, sources told Reuters.

Meanwhile, the

trustee seeking to recover money for Bernard Madoff's victims filed civil claims against Andrew Madoff and the estate of Mark Madoff, accusing the brothers of aiding the fraud and collecting millions of dollars in illicit profits.

Most recently in July, the trustee, Irving Picard, asserted in a court filing that the brothers deleted emails linking them to the scheme at Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities LLC and used sham loans to buy luxury apartments in Manhattan.

Defense lawyers denied the claims and pointed to a ruling from the United Kingdom's High Court of Justice last October against Picard that concluded the brothers did not suspect fraud.

A spokeswoman for Picard said in a statement that the trustee and his team "were very sorry to learn of Andrew Madoff's death and they extend their sympathies to his family."

Last year, Andrew Madoff told the magazine People he would "never forgive" his father for his crimes and blamed a recurrence of his cancer on the stress caused by his father's arrest and conviction. REUTERS

"The pencil skirt with a slit has always been a very sexy piece for me," Joseph Altuzarra told us just as his buzzy collection is poised to hit Target.

Lucky for us, the Parisian-born designer didn't shy away from including any of his signature sizzle to the line he created for the family-friendly retailer. To wit: He even dabbled in lingerie for the first time.

The 50-piece collection, hitting stores Sept. 14, seamlessly mixes vamp with office attire. Pencil skirts and dresses with eyebrow-raising slits are paired with banker shirts or demure pussy-bow blouses. Harness belts add authority to bohemian flounce, and python prints and moody black set the tone: This woman means business.

Altuzarra's been designing clothes for self-assured, seductive women since launching his brand in 2008.

It's why fashion power girls such as Carine Roitfeld and Vanessa Traina quickly flocked to his side.

Now the CFDA Womenswear Designer of the Year, who cut his teeth at Marc Jacobs and Givenchy, is bringing this sexy sway to the masses. Someone has to balance out all the normcore right?

Congratulations on your Target line! The collection amazingly evokes both a high-level executive and a woman going on a hot date. How is that?

Thank you. When designing this collection, we kept in mind the Altuzarra woman: a woman who is confident, empowered and sophisticated. She wants to feel sexy and seductive, no matter the occasion. She has a high appreciation for quality tailoring and considered design, and wants to wear this clothing whether she's at work or going out at night.

You always describe your clothes as being for a woman not a girl. What do you like or dislike about the way girls dress these days.

For me what is the most interesting is the mentality and mindset of somebody — so it's not necessarily about age specifically, but more about frame of mind when it comes to dressing. Women tend to have a different sense of maturity and confidence, which is what I look for and keep in mind with my designs.

Altuzarra's mix of French sensuality and American sportswear is right around the corner. / PROVIDED woman who tries it on perfectly.

What's the most fun thing you've done this summer?
Planning for my wedding.

What are your thoughts on normcore?

We went through an era of runway clothing that might have been disconnected to women's everyday life, and it is refreshing that the runway and reality seem to now be dovetailing in this new trend.

Your clothes ooze sophistication, but what does an Altuzarra woman wear on, say, a relaxed Sunday? Or weekend getaway?

No matter what the Altuzarra woman is doing, she wears something that allows her to look sexy and feel beautiful. For example, a white T-shirt with the red velvet blazer from the Target collection paired with a great skinny jean — it is a casual, comfortable yet sophisticated look. Or if she is on vacation and wants something easy for a night out or dinner with a significant other, the sequined maxi dress is sexy, effortless and beautiful.

Nate Berkus lamps, art supplies — what do you shop at Target for?

I shop for a little bit of everything. Most recently I got two chairs!

Misha Nonoo's moment

The designer was inducted into the exclusive CFDA Incubator, launched an accessories line for Aldo and collaborated with an art world star. We drop in before her spring show to talk about, well, all of it.

"I haven't done laundry in two weeks, so I'm really reaching back into the archives now," exclaims Misha Nonoo about her current look: an oversized white button-down with little gold sequined gym shorts from her Spring '13 collection.

While this might sound like someone who doesn't have a handle on the situation — Nonoo's Spring '15 fashion show is just five days away — there will be no all-nighters for her. The 28-year-old designer — one of the 10 up-and-coming brands inducted into the prestigious CFDA 2014-2016 Fashion Incubator program — has actually got things neatly put together (the outfit, by the way, is pretty chic, too).

In fact, there's nothing but smiles and sweet "OMG, she's so pretty" type chatter in her studio as models come in for casting during this countdown until the big day.

"As a team, we've become much more organized," says the Bahrain-born, London-raised designer. "If I think back to this time last year, it was so down to the wire — everything was so stressful. And now, it's just no longer as difficult."

That's impressive to hear, considering this season marks her most ambitious outing yet. A contemporary art buff, Nonoo collaborated with artist Dustin Yellin to integrate his three-dimensional sculptures onto her sleek short dresses and tailored jackets. She also teamed up with Aldo to create her first-ever line of shoes and handbags as part of the Aldo Rise program.

Yet the self-proclaimed punctuality freak is so on top of things that she has all the fabrics for pre-fall '15 already ordered.

"It's really about becoming more decisive," she says. "As you become more and more clear about who your woman is, it becomes much easier to dress her every season."

And it's clear from the designer's signature looks — soft tones and sheer panels mixed with menswear-inspired tailoring — that the Nonoo woman, while career-focused, isn't afraid to embrace her femininity.

"There's so many smart women out there, and there just aren't so many smart clothes to wear," says the designer, adding: "My woman's on the go. And for her, it's not so much about the trend, it's about investing in pieces that are timeless."

Kind of like that oversized white button-down from a few seasons ago.

Art and fashion

On collaborating with artist Dustin Yellin

"For the past four of five seasons, I've been very much inspired by contemporary art," says Nonoo. "My idea was to really integrate art and fashion. And to actually work alongside an artist in making sure that art was a primary component within the collection." You can find Yellin's prints on dresses and T-shirts in the spring line.

On collecting

"We're very serious about buying into things that have value," says Nonoo, who is married to Alexander Gilkes, the co-founder of online auction site Paddle8. "So it's not just an artist of the moment, but it's really collecting things that will appreciate."

Favorite art spots

"I love going to Pace gallery, Gagosian and Dia: Beacon just outside the city," she says.

Get a front row seat through the eyes of these style bloggers

As any longtime fashionista will tell you, New York Fashion Week just gets bigger and bigger with each passing year. One main reason that the event has become popular far from the confines of Manhattan is because a new wave of bloggers are putting their own spin on fashion coverage and style. Here are some young style mavens taking their readers behind the scenes of runway shows, after-parties and red carpets. LAKSHMI GANDHI

These two Los Angeles-based sisters juggle being students and fashion trendsetters. "Fashion Week preparation started weeks ago," says Remington. "We are currently engaging in last-minute fittings and pulls. Everything is happening as quick as a New York minute, and we couldn't be more excited."

Their NYFW style

"Sophie and I are most excited to wear delicate lace pieces from Stone Cold Fox that are perfect for spring," says Remington.

Their NYFW must-haves

"A fully charged camera, Lanvin ballet flats (in our handbags for shoe emergencies!), and our favorite YSL lip stain."

Isaac Hindin-Miller

ASHKA SHEN

IsaacLikes.com

A New Zealand expat, Hindin-Miller has established himself as a personal style blogger with a sly sense of humor.

His NYFW style

"I just wear what I wear every day, which is generally a combination of navy blue high-top Chuck Taylors, 3X1 jeans, an ancient T-shirt that's been washed so many times it has 18,000 holes in it, and a bomber or denim or leather jacket," says Hindin-Miller.

His NYFW advice

"I've been going to shows for about 12 years now, and I remember exactly how it felt when I first started out — lonely. I knew nobody at all, and fashion folk aren't always the most welcoming bunch," he says. "My advice is to have a partner in crime with you at all times."

Mercado made headlines earlier this year as one of the stars of Diesel's striking campaign by photographers Inez van Lamsweerde and Vinoodh Matadin. An alum of the Fashion Institute of Technology, her journey into modeling was quite different from most — she received a diagnosis of spastic muscular dystrophy as a child and has used a wheelchair since she was 12.

Her NYFW style

"This season I'm especially excited because my friend Becca McCharen, the designer behind Chromat, will be dressing me," she says.

How she prepares

"There are so many shows I want to see this year that choosing between them is going to be the hardest part," says Mercado.

Forget Marc Jacobs. If you really want to show off your fashion bonafides, you need to have tickets not to the stalwarts everyone knows, but the hip up-and-comers who have major insider cachet. From a streetwear designer whose clothes blur the lines between male and female to a new label from the daughters of fashion royalty, these five brands have the hype, talent and connections to make it big in the biz. RAQUEL LANERI

Delpozo

New York Fashion Week isn't necessarily known for envelope-pushing design. (Leave the high-concept stuff to London and Paris.) Yet Madrid-based label Delpozo has recently injected a bit of experimentation and glamour into the Big Apple's more sportswear-driven schedule. Ball gowns with elaborate embroideries, blouses with ballooning sleeves and capes covered in riotous (but elegant) pink plaid are some of the looks that wowed the fashion crowd.

Designed by Josep Font, a Spanish couturier who was hired to relaunch the small label after its founder died unexpectedly in 2011, the new Delpozo made its debut in 2013, where its couture-quality creations seduced the luxe, Vogue-sanctioned online retailer Moda Operandi, who snapped the entire collection for its site.

In less than two years, Delpozo has introduced a footwear line and opened a store in Miami; now it counts stars Kieran Shipka and Cate Blanchett among its fans. And best of all, since Font works at a remove from the major fashion capitals, his collections consistently contain the most original, surprising clothes of the week. Who knows what he'll show this time around?

Public School

Designers Dao-Yi Chow and Maxwell Osborne launched Public School as a line of fancy T-shirts and sweats back in 2007, but it was in 2013 that the menswear label really exploded, winning both the Swarovski Award for Menswear and the CFDA/Vogue Fashion Fund Award for emerging designers (which came with a $300,000 prize). What makes Public School unique, however, is its approach to so-called "streetwear." "Luxury designers like Riccardo Tisci can say most of their inspiration comes from the street," Chow told the New York Times.

"We started from a street base, but our influences are higher-fashion."

Indeed, there's a bit of Comme des Garçons eccentricity even in their most basketball court-ready designs, and the two have expanded their line to include more luxe items like leather jackets and suiting that looks natty but effortless. This year, Public School debuted a womenswear line, too — filled with layered slouchy drawstring pants, sharp blazers, oversized sweaters and culottes (to the delight of tomboys everywhere). Will their sophomore effort prove just as crowd-pleasing? We're betting yes.

Hood by Air

"It's about an attitude or gesture rather than being male or female," says Shayne Oliver of his gender-bending streetwear label Hood by Air. Attitude is right: Hood by Air closed its Fall 2014 show last season with an epic vogue-off, in which a cadre of shirtless male dancers stomped their feet and whipped their long white hair in violent ecstasy to the deafening sounds of industrial metal music. And just like that Hood by Air went from idiosyncratic cult label (whose cult, to be fair, included such hip-hop heavyweights as A$AP Rocky, Rihanna and Kanye West) to fashion darling. To add even more hype

Hood by Air designer
Shayne Oliver / GETTY IMAGES

to this season's outing, the 26-year-old has announced he'll be showing two collections — one in New York City and the other in Paris. The question is: Will he save the big spectacle for France? Regardless, with rap royalty and Vogue editors clamoring to see his show, this is going to be one of the week's biggest. Go get it, Oliver!

Trademark

Of course the daughters of Chris Burch (creator of C. Wonder and ex-husband of Tory Burch) would start their own line of ladylike preppy separates, called, cleverly, Trademark. Yet nepotism be damned, Pookie and Louisa Burch can craft some pretty swoon-worthy clothes, from windowpane-checked skirts to colorful car coats and graphic shirt-and-pant ensembles with a kind of American eccentricity.

A less-quirky-Kate-Spade-meets-a-more-luxe-J.-Crew, Trademark has naturally been getting a lot of buzz. Though it just launched this year, the gals will, in conjunction with debuting their second collection, open their first boutique at 95 Grand St. in SoHo.

Rosie Assoulin

It's not every designer whose Fashion Week debut draws top editors from Vogue. Then again, not every new designer has Man Repeller's Leandra Medine as BFF.

Though 29-year-old Rosie Assoulin may have friends in high places, her bonafides are real: She learned the tools of the trade from masters Oscar de la Renta and Lavin's Alber Elbaz before finally launching her own label a year ago with a confident resort collection filled with elegant wide-legged trousers, insouciant off-the-shoulder blouses and sophisticated eveningwear with a dramatic flair (sashes, cascading ruffles, bustles, a bold stripe or trim).

This year, Forbes named her as one of its 40 Artists and Designers Under 40, and she scored her first major celeb coup (Downton Abbey's Michelle Dockery and wore a stunning structural white, green and blue column to the Emmys). This collection could cement the rapidly rising Assoulin as a red carpet go-to.

Rosie Assoulin / GETTY IMAGES

Connie Britton more enlightened than Gwyneth Paltrow

Remember when Gwyneth Paltrow compared being a mom with a regular office job to being a mom who's a famous actress and decided her situation was tougher? Well, "Nashville" star Connie Britton does. "Our hours are long, but I would never compare what I do to what anyone else does," Britton tells Redbook. "Everybody's working hard and doing the best they can — if you're a mom, there's that pressure, we all face it. I'm constantly being pulled in different directions. But that's the thing: Moms are pulled and distracted. I would never say that's worse for me because I'm an actor."

As a refresher, here's what Paltrow said about the difference between her and, say, Diane Keaton's character in "Baby Boom": "I think it's different when you have an office job, because it's routine and

... you can do all the stuff in the morning and then you come home in the evening. ... When you're shooting a movie, they're like, 'We need you to go to Wisconsin for two weeks,' and then you work 14 hours a day and that part of it is very difficult. I think to have a regular job and be a mom is not as — of course there are challenges, but it's not like being on set."

Thanks again, Goop!

Connie Britton knows your mom's job is not easy.

Brangelina wedding details

Details of Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt's nuptials last month at Chateau Miraval, their estate in France, are coming out in People magazine. Chief among them are the efforts the couple made to include the memory of Jolie's mother, Marcheline Bertrand, who died in 2007 of ovarian cancer.

"Brad had a dedication to Marcheline engraved inside the chapel where we stood," Jolie tells the magazine. "I also wore a little flower ring that was hers, and [my brother] Jamie wore an angel pin from her jewelry box."

Cee Lo made sure his life isn't so hot right now

Cee Lo, America wants to sing the chorus of your most famous song back to you. / ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Cee Lo Green's "The Good Life" won't be coming back to TBS for a second season, which makes sense considering that the former "Voice" judge's life isn't that good right now. The cancellation news, first announced by the Hollywood Reporter, comes in the wake of Green's latest legal troubles and a rape-related Twitter meltdown, and critics have been quick to suggest cause and effect. Last week, Green pleaded no contest to giving a woman ecstasy without her knowledge in 2012. He was sentenced to three years' probation, 360 hours of community service and a year of weekly NA/AA meetings. He followed that up by posting on Twitter, "If someone is passed out they're not even with you consciously! So with implies consent," he wrote. Yikes.

Paying the price for 'Poor Behavior'

Theater. Theresa Rebeck's latest tells you what to think — but then leaves you guessing.

Two couples plan to spend the weekend at a country house. Sure, no one can remember whose idea this was, and nobody seems to be having a good time. And the "country" is upstate New York. But it could still turn out great, right?

Maybe not if one of the guests is a sociopath. And one's suicidal. And one has anger management issues. And don't forget the reliable self-inserts of playwright Theresa Rebeck. The two candidates for this prestigious assignment in "Poor Behavior" are Ian (Brian Avers) and Ella (Katie Kriesler). They bicker like others flirt, taking up opposing views on topics like morality and goodness to flesh out what are presumably Rebeck's opinions.

That leaves their respective spouses, Maureen (Heidi Armbruster) and Peter (Jeff Biehl), to stand in as foils. Maureen, who is nothing more than crazy and unlikable, accuses Ian and Ella of having an affair. And she's determined to draw levelheaded Peter into the drama that she most likely fabricated (because she's just so crazy). Finally, he begins to believe the story. And Ian decides that if their spouses already think he and Ella are cheating, they might as well go ahead and do it. Or are they supposed to refrain — even if they'll be treated like adulterers, regardless?

Despite the pedantry that dominates the dialogue, and the flaws in character dynamics, the play is still wholly entertaining. That's mostly thanks to the actors, who add much-needed nuance to this dysfunctional quartet, as well as a heart-quickening surprise in the last leg of the play. It may not quite fit the tone of the rest of the script, but it gives the energy in the room a much-needed boost to carry the audience through to a shrug-worthy "make of this what you will" ending.

Most exciting films at TIFF

It's not Cannes, but it's close: The Toronto International Film Festival is the cinematic spectacle that lands right as awards season kicks off. Many of the films that will soon be gobbling up trophies make their debut here, usually bringing with them their good-looking stars. There are 400 films screening at TIFF, but here are seven that we're really excited about. NED EHRBAR

'Foxcatcher'

"Moneyball" director Bennett Miller returns to TIFF with this Sundance hit starring Steve Carell, Channing Tatum and Mark Ruffalo telling the true story of a pair of Olympic wrestler brothers (Tatum and Ruffalo) and eccentric millionaire John du Pont (Carell).

'The Theory of Everything'

Eddie Redmayne is already earning raves for his turn as Stephen Hawking in a film about his time at university as he falls in love and falls victim to a motor neuron disease that robs him of his speech and mobility.

'Maps to the Stars'

David Cronenberg, one of Toronto's favorite sons, takes on a dysfunctional family mired in the depths of Hollywood and fame-seeking, featuring a stellar cast led by Julianne Moore.

'Rosewater'

5
Jon Stewart steps away from "The Daily Show" desk with his directorial debut, an adaptation of the New York Times best-selling memoir by BBC journalist Maziar Bahari about being detained and interrogated in Iran in 2009. Gael Garcia Bernal plays Bahari.

'St. Vincent'

Bill Murray stars as a curmudgeon taking his 12-year-old son under his wing and educating the boy in the world of race tracks, dive bars and strip clubs while the boy's mother (Melissa McCarthy) is busy at work. There are worse ways to grow up.

'Wild'

7
Reese Witherspoon is after another Oscar with "Wild," directed by Jean-Marc Vallée ("Dallas Buyers Club"), about a woman leaving her broken marriage and drug-addled past behind to embark on a thousand-mile solo trek along the Pacific Crest Trail.

The Daily Love: Breaking the cycle of unhealthy relationships

Relationships. Mastin Kipp shares how to find the love you deserve.

It was a tweet from Kim Kardashian that helped change the course of Mastin Kipp's career.

KIM KARDASHIAN
GETTY IMAGES

Kipp had been tweeting advice and observations about relationships to the approximately 1,000 followers of his account when the reality star discovered it in 2009. "I feel so inspired when I read tweets from @TheDailyLove," she wrote. "They make me feel lovey and positive!"

That night, the popularity of The Daily Love Twitter account skyrocketed to 10,000 fans, and a new chapter in Kipp's career was born. In his new book "Daily Love: Growing into Grace," Kipp traces his somewhat unlikely journey from being a young executive at a record company who nearly loses it all to addiction to becoming what Oprah Winfrey once called a "thought leader of the next generation of spiritual thinkers."

"It was actually very difficult to revisit that time," says Kipp of his struggles in the past. "But it was worthwhile. When you write, it not only shows you where you've been, it also shows you how far you've come."

We asked Kipp for some advice on how to find and nourish a healthy relationship.

Learn the definition of a healthy relationship

"A toxic relationship is when you think, 'What can I take from this person?' versus a healthy relationship, which is, 'What can I give?' 'How can I support this person?'" notes Kipp.

Introspection

Question your motivations

Kipp also advises people who are unhappy in their love lives to figure out why they want to be in a relationship in the first place. "Ask yourself, 'Am I dating someone to date someone? Am I afraid of being alone?'" he says.

Break the cycle

Do you find that you run into the same problems and have the same frustrations in every romantic relationship? Some self-reflection is probably in order. "I call it the 'same person in different shoes' rule," says Kipp. "You are basically saying, to live like this is what I'm worth."

Kipp's tour comes to Middle Collegiate Church on Sept. 8-9.
PROVIDED

Have the courage to do what is best for you

"I think a lot of times people will choose the relationship where you can be the nurturer," Kipp says. "It can be scary to ask what our needs are."

Self-discovery

The big questions

Kipp is asked these the most frequently:

- "How can I love myself?"
- "Is it time to break up?"
- "How do I find someone?"

He isn't surprised by the common theme:

"I think we all have the same physical anatomy, why wouldn't we also have the same emotional anatomy?"

Good news: Short men get divorced at lower rates than taller ones.
PHOTODISC

When it comes to dating, height matters

Height difference.

A new study found that short and tall men behave differently in relationships.

Does a man's height really matter when it comes to dating?

Unfortunately, according to a new study, the answer looks like it might be yes.

"There seems to be an almost universal agreement among men and women that they would prefer to be in a relationship where the man is taller," Abigail Weitzman, the lead author of a new study by the National Bureau of Economic Research, told the Washington Post.

While it has long been a stereotype that tall men have it easier when it comes to dating, it turns out that there are several advantages shorter men — that is, those under 5 feet 7 inches — have over their taller brethren. The ## more liberal?

Are taller men

The study also found significant differences in the way short and tall men conduct themselves within their marriages.

- Tall men, on average, do more housework.
- Women who married tall men were more likely to earn about the same as their partners.

researchers found that shorter guys get divorced at lower rates, and their relationships generally last longer as well.

As for taller than average men (those taller than 6 foot 2 inches), Weitzman and her team found that they were more likely to marry older, well-educated women. Interestingly, they are also more likely to marry women who are closer to their own height.

Bagged. Love is blind on reality show

A common criticism of reality shows such as "The Bachelorette" is that the contestants are too focused on looks when considering a potential love interest.

The new show "Bagged," which airs Thursdays at 8 p.m. on the Asian American network MYX TV, turns the traditional dating show on its head by having all of its male contestants wear brightly colored masks on their heads. The only feature recognizable is the shape of their noses.

"It allows a guy to express more of his personality than just rely on his looks," show participant Eunice Lee told FoxNews.com. LAKSHMI GANDHI

Fashion Week for all

Invite lost in the mail? You can still have a great week.

Shows

Find out what will be coming down the runways next year at Emerging Trends (Holy Apostles Ballroom, 296 Ninth Ave.). For the event's first time at NYC Fashion Week, designers will present brief showcases, and if you see something you like you can buy it at the event using your smartphone. Networking is encouraged, so bring your portfolio. $35-$100, Sept. 4, 7 p.m.

This might be the only fashion show preoccupied with what we wear underneath our stylish duds. Burlesque Boudoir at Opus 51 (51 Gansevoort St.) is a lingerie fashion show featuring the designs of the U.K.'s Louise Ferdinand and Steve Boi, with cocktails and luxury swag because it's wouldn't be a proper event otherwise. Duane Park's dancers will provide the entertainment. $50-$250, Sept. 4, 6 p.m.

New Jersey's own organic bakery Royal Cake Design Studio is partnering with designer Michael Costello to put on the first-ever Cakes & Couture Fashion Show, arguably the city's most delicious red carpet affair. Edible, life-size replicas of Costello's Spring 2015 designs (his other recent project: costumer for Beyoncé's On the Run Tour) will be on display during the party at 404 NYC, but don't fret — they'll be divvied up to take home at the end of the night. $220-$480, Sept. 12, 7 p.m., www.cakesandcouture.com

West Village

Feel Food (496 Avenue of the Americas) brings a Latin flair to eating well, and is already on the map for downtown models and designers. Its built-for-energy Fashion Week Ready menu ($18) includes a main, juice and dessert — the healthy kind, like chia pudding, or try the new up-and-coming superfood caju in the Floresta Life Dessert.

SoHo

Try the tuna crudo inside the massive greenhouse built to resemble Florence's Boboli gardens at Isola Trattoria & Crudo Bar. (9 Crosby St.)

Theater District

Newcomer Urbo (11 Times Square) is a showroom for NYC's interior (and exterior) design. Stop in for a cocktail alongside small bites like mini lamb burgers and prawns grilled on the plancha.

Lincoln Center

For a light bite without missing a moment, park yourself on the outdoor patio of The Smith

Dance

Dressing up to jump the line only works when everyone else in town isn't bringing their A-game. But not every party is official or exclusive. These venues are worth paying attention to if you want to grab some real-world style tips from the professionals. Just as one size doesn't fit all, Up & Down (244 W. 14th St.) is both a club and lounge, respectively. A hot spot during last year's Fashion Week, it hosts industry and magazine parties all year long and lures headline-worthy DJs.

When it's not hosting designers' shows, Milk Studios (450 W. 15th St.) returns to its party space mission on the penthouse and deck. Just don't wear your killer heels — seating is limited.

Winning drink

Elisir d'Amore

Vincenzo Cangemi has proven that imaginative bartenders can be found anywhere — including a Chelsea pizzeria. A three-judge panel awarded the Ovest Pizzoteca and Bar mixologist the regional Most Imaginative Bartender title for his Bombay Sapphire-based drink at the United States Bartenders' Guild competition last month. On Monday, he will face off against 39 of the country's best bartenders in Las Vegas for the national title, which will be awarded based on appearance, aroma, imagination and taste.

Ingredients

- 1.75 oz. Bombay Sapphire gin
- 0.5 oz. Solerno blood orange liquor
- 0.75 oz. reduction of fresh chamomile flowers and ginger beer
- 0.5 oz. lemon juice
- 6-7 yellow endive leaves
- 1 bar spoon of coriander seeds

Instructions

Pour lemon juice, coriander and reduction into a shaker. Muddle until the seeds break, then add endive, holding one leaf in reserve, and muddle. Add alcohols. Shake and double strain into a coupette. Garnish with endive leaf.

Film

For some, "The Devil Wears Prada" took the shine off the fashion business — or maybe it made you hungrier than ever to grovel at the Manolo Blahniks of style editors. For you, Nitehawk Cinema in Williamsburg is hosting a Lejay Creme de Cassis cocktail party, with gift bags from Dreamcliq. $15, Sept. 10, 9:30 p.m.

Tour

There's more to fashion than the beautiful people on the runways, and NYC is full of places to see it firsthand. Take a Fashion Week Tour led by a professional designer, where you'll visit the Fashion Walk of Fame and well-known filming spots for shows like "Project Runway," learn about the garment and retail industries and take a peek inside a working factory or showroom. $50, Sept. 4-11, www.seeknewyorkllc.com

Horoscope

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Put your energy and enthusiasm to good use. By getting small jobs done, you will have the time to do something special.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Interaction with family members will be dissatisfying. If you want to lessen the tension, consider offering to run errands.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. Don't let friends or family subdue your enthusiasm. You may be considered quirky or unusual, but that is no reason to stifle your creativity.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Keep money matters a secret for the time being. Resist the urge to lend or borrow. Don't discuss investments.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. You may be confused about your love life. Be honest about the way you feel, and discuss personal decisions with your partner.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. Protect your interests. There are people who would like to benefit from your ideas. Your intuition will guide you right.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Participate in an unusual or unconventional creative process. New friendships will develop if you are open about how you feel.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. Take care of your responsibilities. This is not a good time to air grievances. Bad feelings will mount if you get into an argument.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Travel and communication are highlighted. Valuable friendships and information will come your way if you do things with people you admire.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Take the time to assist family members. You will gain important allies if you are helpful to older relatives. Scrutinize your papers.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. Don't criticize others. Your emotions will run high, and you are likely to offend someone if you refuse to see both sides of a situation.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. Put in extra hours at work and increase your productivity. Your superiors will appreciate your efforts and will put you in the running for a raise. EUGENIA LAST

Metro doesn't think like the patriarchy

Re: 'Creepy hackers release creepy naked celeb photos for the Internet's creeps' (Metro, Sept. 2) Thanks for writing:

"The notion 'don't take nude photos of yourself if you don't want them online' both unnecessarily shames the victim of an actual crime — hacking and theft of personal property — and seems to give a pass to actual criminals by leaving the hacker out of the equation altogether." It's refreshing to hear this come from a man. Some female friends and I are often climbing mountains to convey this idea to both men and women who fail to understand how a socially constructed, patriarchy-centric expression of language can impact how they interpret a situation. By saying this, you are demonstrating that such ideas are not developed in a vacuum by women alone. In many conversations about women's empowerment, men are often left out of the conversation as though they have little wisdom to add. As readers finish the article, they can re-center themselves and be reminded that this is essentially a case of an invasion of privacy, and that hacking into other people's private accounts is not the fault of the victim. MELODY LAM, VIA EMAIL

Giants stories to watch this year

NFL. The Giants have a new offense, but face plenty of questions already.

The Giants rebounded from an embarrassing 0-6 start to last season, but not well enough to make the playoffs.

The poor start probably cost longtime offensive coordinator Kevin Gilbride his job. But the results of that change have been anything but fruitful so far.

The Giants got a chance to play five preseason games due to a spot in the Hall of Fame Game. It might have been critical for an offense which still looks shaky at best.

Bouncing back

Eli Manning faces pressure not just to understand new offensive coordinator Ben McAdoo's offense, but simply look better than he did in a 2013 which was the worst season of his career.

He threw a career-worst 27 interceptions to lead the league. Some of it was the fault of an offensive line which looked well below average most of the season. But even if he was constantly under pressure, a veteran QB should never throw for such an absurdly high number of picks. And now new quarterbacks coach Danny Langsdorf wants Manning to aim for a completion percentage of 70 percent. He was at 57.5 percent last season and has never been higher than 62.9 percent (2010). To say 70 percent is unlikely would be the understatement of the year.

But Manning has to be significantly better if the Giants are going to make the playoffs.

ROLLE HAS A CAREER-HIGH SIX INTERCEPTIONS LAST SEASON.

On a 'Rolle'

Antrel Rolle quietly — if it's possible for Rolle to do anything quietly — had his best season in New York last year. He was rewarded with a Pro Bowl appearance, but partly due to the 0-6 start he was never given the credit he deserved. Rolle appeared to be nearing the end of his career after 2012 when he was already 30 years old. But last season's success could be a sign he's got something left in the tank — or could've just been a last gasp before wrapping up a very good career.

Bum Beckham

There was a time when Giants fans thought they'd be seeing a gamebreaking wideout in Odell Beckham after he was taken No. 12 at this year's NFL draft. Now they'd just like to see him period. Beckham pulled a hamstring on the first day of camp and hasn't been back. He neared a return to practice in late August, only to suffer a setback. It could end up being like Prince Amukamara's rookie season, which was a loss due to injury even though he returned midway.

Back depth

If you'd been told after last season David Wilson would be forced to retire before 2014 due to neck injuries, the loss would've been heralded as catastrophic. The running back group was so awful in 2013 a washed-up Brandon Jacobs was its top performer. But the signing of Rashad Jennings and the emergence of rookie Andre Williams has the backfield looking better than the wide receiving group in a stunning reversal from a year ago.

PIERRE-PAUL WOULDN'T PUT A NUMBER ON HIS 2014 SACK TOTAL, BUT INSTEAD SAID "UNLIMITED."

Up with JPP

Few defensive players have been as mercurial as Jason Pierre-Paul in the entire NFL. When Pierre-Paul exploded for 16 1/2 sacks in his second season, it looked like the Giants had found the newest, best defensive end in the game. But then he struggled to 6 1/2 sacks the following season in 2012, and had just two sacks as he dealt with a host of injuries last season. He says he's as healthy as he's been since his huge season in 2011, and hasn't backed down from saying he hopes to exceed that total in 2014. Even a solid, double-digit sack total would make a huge impact on the defense.

U.S. Open

Nishikori upsets Wawrinka in another classic

The last 48 hours of Kei Nishikori's life were more epic than yours.

The good news is, now he has two days to rest. After spending a combined eight hours and 34 minutes on court in his last two U.S. Open matches — and finishing his fourth-round match at 2:26 a.m. Tuesday — Nishikori became the first Japanese man to reach the semifinals of the U.S. Open since 1918 when they were known as the U.S. Championships.

In a taut match that spilled from afternoon into early evening inside Arthur Ashe Stadium, the 24-year-old outlasted No. 3 seed and reigning Wimbledon champion Stan Wawrinka, 3-6, 7-5, 7-6 (7), 6-7 (5), 6-4 in the quarterfinals. In Saturday's semifinals, he will play the winner of Wednesday's late encounter between Novak Djokovic and Andy Murray for a berth in the championship match.

"I feel amazing, especially playing well and my favorite Grand Slam," Nishikori, who improved to 10-2 in five-set affairs, said in an on-court interview. "I'm very happy to come first time semis. I hope I can play 100 percent tennis next round."

By the time Nishikori went to bed Tuesday, it was 5:30 a.m.

"My body was OK," he said. ADAM ZAGORIA

Clinical Research Study

Is your face persistently flushed and/or red?

If so, you may be eligible to participate in a clinical research study to evaluate the safety and effectiveness of an investigational topical cream being used to help with facial redness due to rosacea.

Qualified participants must:

- be at least 18 years of age
- experience constant redness and/or flushing on their face

Qualified participants will receive:

- all study-related medical care
- investigational topical cream
- compensation for time and travel

Health insurance is not necessary to participate.

To learn more about this study and to see if you qualify, call or email a study coordinator at:

Research Study: Have you been experiencing symptoms associated with overactive bladder?

- Are you female?
- Are you post-menopausal?
- Are you experiencing decline in sexual satisfaction?

If yes, you may be eligible for a free treatment using a novel therapy: medication including a topical agent.

Our study seeks to understand if there are any optimal therapies that improve the efficacy of treatment of overactive bladder and female sexual dysfunction for post-menopausal women.

Compensation for completion of the study is $250.

If you are interested in participating or want to learn more about this study, please contact our study coordinator:

When symptoms persist, there may be more you can do.

If feelings such as depressed mood or lack of energy are keeping you from the things that matter to you, you may be eligible for this research study. It's evaluating an investigational drug designed to work with antidepressants to see if it can help address unresolved symptoms of depression.

All eligible study participants will receive at no cost:

Consultation with study doctor

Study drugs

Study-related care and visits
